

I'm using external triggering. The trigger has fired so this trace is available, but the trigger isn't repeatedly firing.

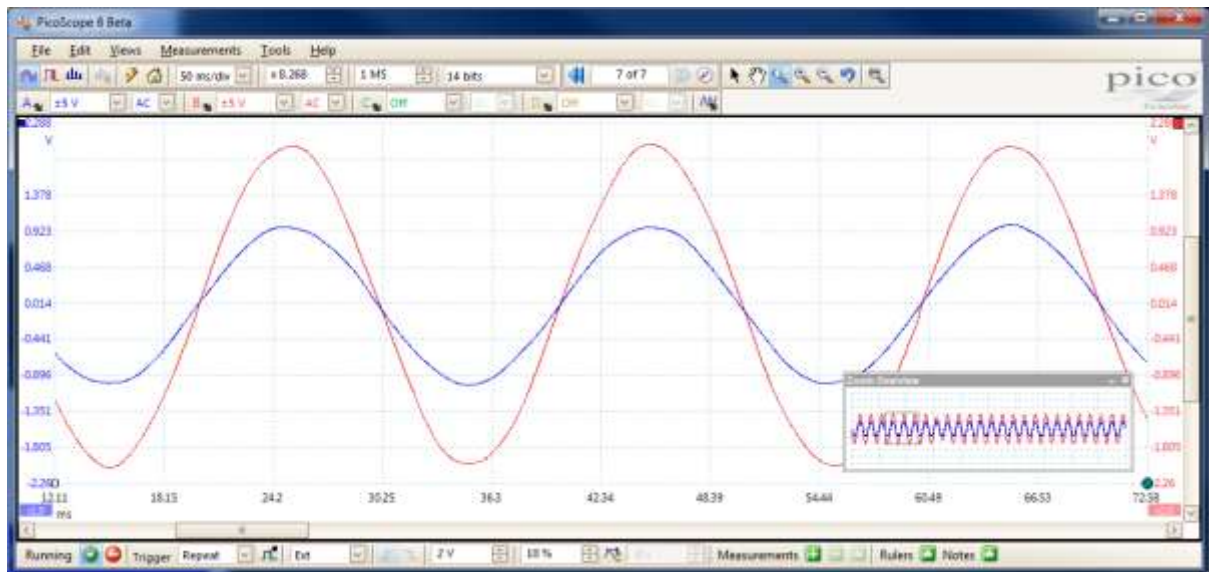

I zoom in to a section of the waveform

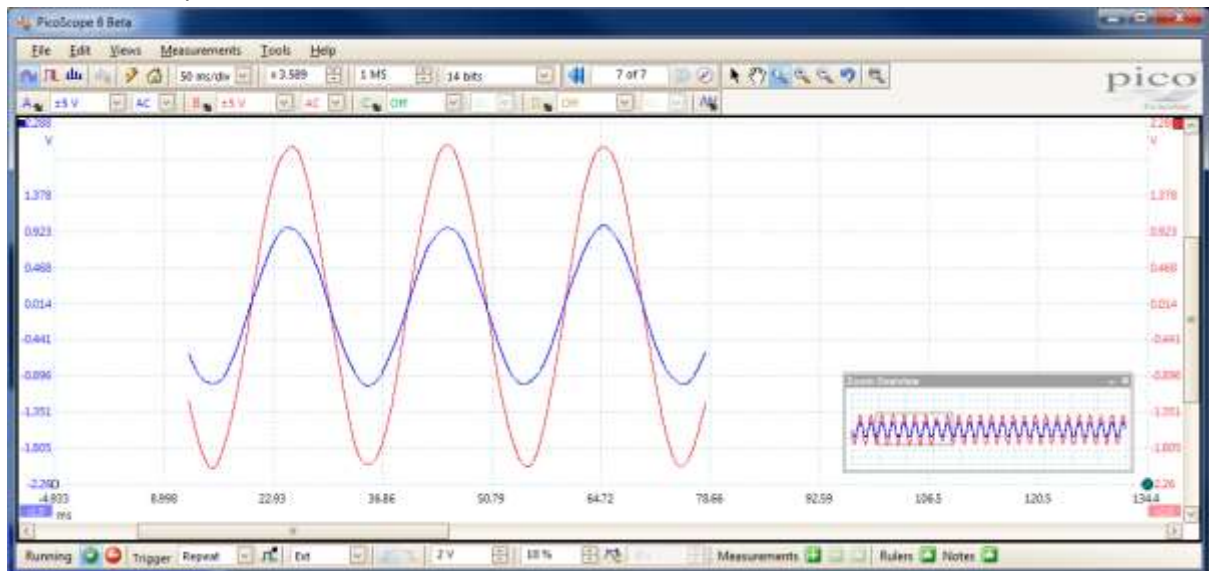

The trace lines look "fatter" than I expect. Anyway, I fire the trigger again

The lines got thinner

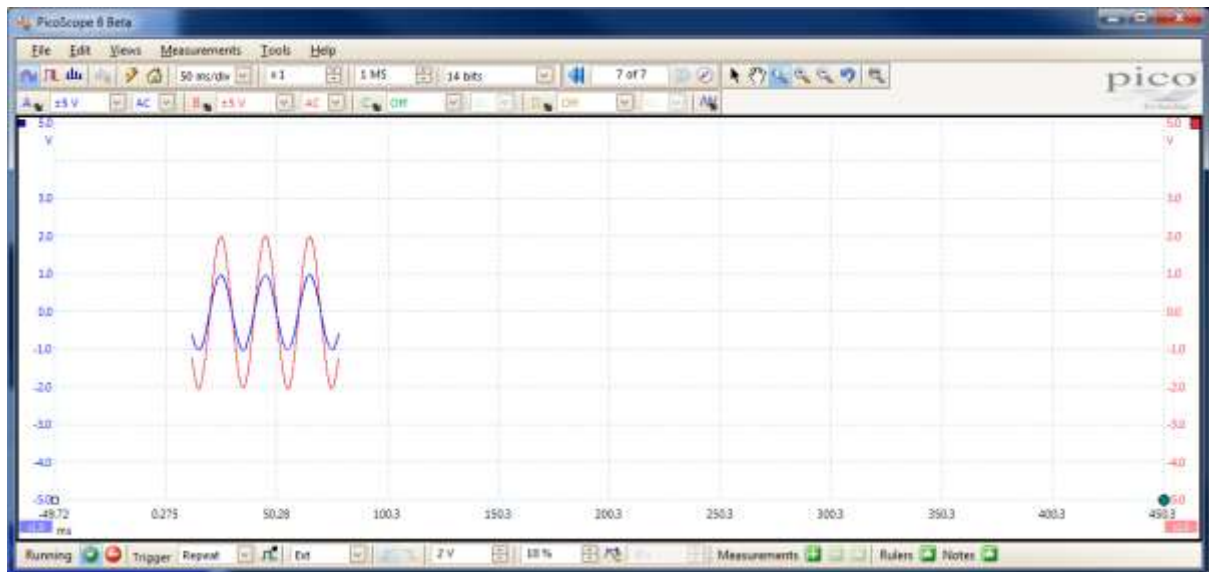

Now I resize my zoom window a little

That's interesting, it's only showing me the part of the waveform which was originally in the zoom window when the trigger was fired.

I close the zoom window

I'm still only seeing the part of the waveform which was in the zoom window when the trigger was fired.